

Q1: What helps users to get their requests done while connecting to the database?

Q2: What are two types of database models that we generally use?

Q3: How many types of DBMS Architecture do we use according to the usage requirements?

Q4: The industry won't use what architecture?

Q5: What helps users to get their requests done while connecting to the database?

Q6: How many types of database models do we generally use?